

Can people find your blog?

Getting your ideas out there brings them new life, if left to the caverns of your mind they are as good as gone. Sharing ideas allows them to develop and grow, their impact is diminished in isolation. You could be a talented writer with engaging ideas, but if no one is finding it then you have to ask yourself whom you are writing for. There is nothing wrong with writing for you, but many people want to make an impact on the world around them. If you find your inspiration for writing is so that others can be bettered by what you write, then you might want to look into submitting your blog to a directory.

Submit blog directories are a collection of blogs that allow potential readers to conveniently discover blogs they are interested in. Submit blog directories eliminate the need for readers to wander around the net, the directory allows for simple browsing that brings interested readers to your blog. The submit blog directories also have a feedback system of comments and ratings that allow interested readers to browse others thought of your blog. This can work in your favor, not only can your craftsmanship boost your blog, but so can the commentary of your readership. It does not take much time to set up submitting your blog to the directory and it can help bring more people to your blog and allow you to share your work. This does not mean that you can slack off and people will just come to see your brilliance, but it does make it easier for people to discover the quality time you put into your writing. A submit blog directory is all about getting that visibility for your blog and your ideas, getting it out to the people who can get the most out of it.

No need to jump right in to the first submit blog directory you find though. Since there are many blog directories you can submit to, it would be good to take a look around and see what they offer. Is the directory mostly offering gimmicky incentives to make up for the fact that not many people go through that directory? Also take a look around at who else is using that submit blog directory, if your blog is surrounded by low quality, that reflects on you. It is all about finding the right conversation for you and your blog, what type of conversation do you want to find yourself in?
